General Topics :: Anybody Out There? - Mike Fusilier

A Jury just gave Planned Parenthood (#1 Baby Killing Company) 2 Million dollars because secret videos of their executors were caught on tape drinking wine and discussing how much they could get for different Baby Body Parts (it's worth a watch; just skip the popcorn). The reason: It affected their BUSINESS!

THIS IS THEIR BUSINESS! (if this picture offends you; I apologize that I CAN'T Apologize)

Their Business, according to their spokesman is providing SAFE and LEGAL ABORTIONS... SAFE ABORTIONS! Thnk of that Oxymoron....Ever saw the aftermath of an abortion with disseminated baby lying on a table and put back together like a puzzle! Google it if you haven't...Everyone NEEDS to SEE this...LOOK at this.....CONTEMPLATE what we are doing every day in our nation!

These pictures should be in newspapers, billboards, magazines, TV!!!! Why aren't They?? I'll tell you....Because the human brain can't take it! No one can LOOK at this picture and say...Wow that was a SAFE and LEGAL abortion! No, they HIDE this Barbaric act and proclaim it a right of women.....while Christians pretty much say little or nothing.....Some may go out on a limb and wear a t shirt that says Pro Life, that's about the extent of our VOICE to protect innocent babies. My friends WE HAVE a COMMAND to DO MORE from GOD!

Rescue those being led away to death; hold back those staggering toward slaughter. Proverbs 24:11

The only time the Left and the Media were every upset about a Baby being Cut Up and Stabbed was when it was in the form of a Donald Trump Balloon in Alabama!

Silence in the Presence of Evil; is Evil itself. Not to speak; Is to Speak, Not to Act is to Act....Bonhoffer (Holocaust Martyr ) â€œSometimes I feel like Elijah in his cave (hiding and sulking) because I do feel like sometimes I'm the only one seeing what I see; feeling what I feel; BUT I have to know that God has others out there who "Have not bowed the Knee to Baal "....

Anybody out there....mike

I have not bowed the knee to Baal, Mike. I know there are others. But like you, I often feel like I am an island.

I tried to raise 7 children for Christ. They are all at different degrees in the world which is an enormous grief that I can hardly bear sometimes. However, even my most prodigals are staunchly pro-life.

Always appreciate your posts. Keep them coming.

Thank you sister!

This post was written by a friend of mine, but I am in total agreement.

In the Old Testament child sacrifice was to a demon god named Molech. Children were cast into a furnace of fire. Satan still demands blood sacrifice of his followers. This is taking place today through the murder of at least 60 million babies through abortion.

Mama27, when read your post I am reminded of what I read in 1 & 2 Kings and 1 & 2 Chronicles about the various kings of Judah: there will be a godly king (or two) often followed by an idolatrous king, even though this son grew up in the fea r & admonition of the Lord, and saw God work wonders for his father. We all have choices, and we are each accountabl e for our actions. No godly parent wants to see a child go to hell, but it happens often---usually after the parents preced e them in death.

We in the western world are living in an era of incredible apostasy (which began in the church----after all, the lost have n othing to fall away from).

May God give you peace of heart and mind. The burden and the battle are His.

Dear Sister,

Many of us have prodigal sons and daughters, but we put our faith in the promises of God that they will return to the Fat herâ€™s house. That is the will of God for their lives.

â€œThey replied, â€œBelieve in the Lord Jesus and you will be saved, along with everyone in your household.â€• (Acts 16:31)

Re: - posted by CalvaryCom (), on: 2019/11/17 11:48
That verse in Acts was about the Philippian jailer and his household. I have heard many Christian's misapply that as a " promise" of household salvation from God. On the contrary, our Lord Jesus said a man's enemies shall be of his own h ousehold, and spoke of betrayals within families for the Gospel's sake.

Luke 17:34: "On that night, I tell you, there will be two people sleeping in the same bed: one will be taken away, the oth er will be left behind."

David Wilkerson said his older sister died denying Christ, despite the fact that their parents were sound in the faith.

Well thank you both for both your admonitions and encouragement. Yes, we truly can only throw ourselves on Jesus. S alvation belongs to Him. Hard as it is, I have come to the point of praying â€œwhatever it takes, Lord....â€•
But I have trouble sleeping at night.

The Word of God says that it is the will of God that all would be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth. (1 Timot hy 2:4)

The Word also says that God is married to the backslider.

Hundreds of thousands of people were won to Christ in the Pyongyang revival of 1907-1910 in North Korea, including Kim Jong-un's great-grandparents (Kim Hyong-jik, a Christian school teacher and missionary, and Kang Pan-sok, a Presbyterian church deaconess). When his grandfather Kim Il-sung was a teenager he played organ in the church. However, he was so exasperated by the oppression from the Japanese occupation of Korea from 1910 until 1945 that he turned from Christ, rejected Him, embraced communism, and was installed by the Soviets as the leader of North Korea in the late '40s. He told the people that everything they learned in church, all the prayers and songs of praise, were now to be directed to him (Kim Il-sung), and his son Kim Jong-il did the same, and so does Kim Jong-un to this present day.

Yes, it is God's desire that none should perish apart from Christ, and our desire, too, as born again believers, but God doesn't create robots, and He doesn't have grandchildren. My salvation does not guarantee my family's salvation. We cannot intercede, as Jesus Himself is our Advocate to the Father, but there are countless examples of Christians whose siblings or children rejected the Gospel and died in sin. This is reality. Kim Il-sung is a famous example.

Re: - posted by mama27, on: 2019/11/17 19:13

I don't take issue with you Alec. Yes it is reality that not everyone is saved and it is reality that God doesn't make robots, etc...I can focus on that though or I would sink into despair instead of continuing to fervently pray and to make sure my life lines up with Christ so that my children see something of Jesus in me. As long as there is life there is hope.

Re: - posted by CalvaryCom (), on: 2019/11/17 19:59

Yes, absolutely.

Each salvation is miraculous and precious. We always pray for and hope the lost will fall on the Rock which is Christ and be broken, or else the Rock will fall on them and grind them to powder. There is no third alternative.

Re: - posted by AbideinHim (), on: 2019/11/17 21:10

Brother,

It should be that as members of the Body of Christ that we give people hope for their lost loved ones. What you are doing is giving examples of those that died in their sins. This is exactly the picture that the enemy wants to paint. He always wants us to give up hope and to stop praying.

Why not give testimonies of God's faithfulness, and of the ones that repented, and were restored by God's Grace.
It is because of the prison ministry that I am involved in, that I can testify that as long as a person is breathing, there is hope, and God knows how to deal with people where it would seem impossible to man for them to ever be saved.

Where sin did abound, God’s Grace did much more abound.
(Romans 5:20)

Re: - posted by CalvaryCom (), on: 2019/11/18 6:40
We are not in disagreement regarding hope, Mike, but we must face reality. Not all of our friends and loved ones will be saved. I have come to grips with this. Have you? I hope, pray, and intercede, but it is between God and each individual.
I cannot twist God's arm to save someone who is dead set against Him. We see example after example in the Scripture as, I shared regarding the kings of Judah earlier. And history bears this out. Even William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, had children who rebelled and turned from God.

Re: - posted by mama27, on: 2019/11/18 11:42
I’m just curious Alec, if you have children?

Re: - posted by CalvaryCom (), on: 2019/11/18 16:10
I don’t even know your name and you want to ask questions about my personal life?

Re: - posted by mama27, on: 2019/11/18 17:23
Oh my! I'm so sorry and didn’t mean anything by it. I’m sorry I don’t put my name out there b/c of family members who would consider it a breach of privacy if they read anything I wrote. That’s why I’ve not shared my name out of deference to them. I meant nothing by it.

Mike,

I share your grief about abortion. Have worked in the gutter with this issue for many years...have learned a few things in the process.

Stats used to say that the number of religious people having abortions differs little from the general population. The reason for abortions is because they do not want the baby. Simple, yes?

The tragedy is that it could all have been prevented if they followed a lifestyle of Chastity, or moral purity. These folks know what causes babies - they are not ignorant. They know abortion is sin and that God would not want them to kill their baby; they know immorality is sin. They also believe that if they go ahead and have an abortion they can come back and ask God to forgive them and that He will. Some also believe that they are too good to go to hell - God would not condemn them to hell or they know they are going there but they will have friends there.

Mike, methinks the biggest problem and the solution resides in the church. People need to get some fear of God into their hearts and respond accordingly. But they have become Gospel hardened by way of movies that glorify sin and minimize its consequences.

This is my evaluation of working at a Crises Pregnancy Center for fifteen years.

Too bad.

Not just movies, Sandra, but any and all secular media which glorify sin instead of extolling Truth.

Re: - posted by CalvaryCom (), on: 2019/11/18 18:42
It's okay, mama27.

Re: - posted by AbideinHim (), on: 2019/11/19 11:53
Hi Sister Sandra,

I have a great appreciation for women like you that work in life centers and are able to pray with and counsel many women that have unwanted pregnancies, and many of them have the baby, and often put them up for adoption.

Tomorrow morning I will be interviewing a councilor that had an abortion herself at a young age. The greatest prayer warriors that are some of the strongest pro-life advocates are those that have been wounded through abortions, born again, and now are giving much of their time to rescue women that are considering abortion as an option, and praying for healing with those that have already had abortions.

Re: - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2019/11/19 20:42
Mike,

The greatest fault of the pro-life movement and the church is its failure to teach Chasity or moral purity. Push it, Mike. Demand it. and God bless.

Sandra

Agreed, Sandra!

Mike, thx for the links on prodigals....very helpful

Re: - posted by AbideinHim (), on: 2019/11/20 6:09
Amen Sisters!

The true grace of God in the life of a believer will produce holiness, not license. Freedom from sin, not freedom to sin!

Did you have this interview? What did you learn from it? Mind telling us?

Mike Fuselier is a friend of mine from Lafayette La. He has been a coach and a school teacher, and every year he hosts menâ€™s retreats. Mike brings men to the retreat from Ministries like Teen Challenge. I have interviewed Mike on several different occasions.

I have learned from Mike that it is possible to walk uncompromisingly in the love Of God.
