"How long, Lord?" - Psalm 79:5

Will God send another great awakening? Can revival still change nations? There are over 10,000 conferences that happen every year in America. The "Revival Conference" is not to be just another conference but an honest, sincere, earnest plea for the desperate need of revival in North America. There is no cost to attend the event. There will be a minimal amount of materials sold. There will be no big bands. The conference will have the chief object to be God-glorifying. The speakers will come on their own accord trusting God for provision. There will be no emphasis on money during the event. The event will be a simple, apostolic, yearning for a genuine biblical revival in our day.

This conference is hosted by the ministry of sermonindex.net and is a inter-denominational event. The event will be hosted at the "Trinity Gospel Temple" venue which has been freely given to be used for this event. The conference is not officially affiliated with any denomination or specific church.

Brother thank, for this info..
I delighted to see there is time of prayer.
This has blessed my heart. Thank you for all your hard work..

Now let us pray...
Charlene

Sister,
Amen, yes the times of prayer are crucial and much needed. Hopefully the preaching will simply burden us to pray more for revival. We are in the new facility: "Trinity Gospel Temple" which seats over 3000 people and will have a room setup for prayer that will go on during the entire conference!

Re: - posted by BrokenOne (), on: 2007/9/16 7:20

Will the prayer time also be broadcast live over the internet so those of us who can't go to the conference can participate ?

Hi,
As per the schedule at www.revivalconference.com I am hoping to get as many sessions live on christian.tv as possible including all the corporate prayer times. I do think it would be great to have many saints across the world agreeing in prayer together.

Brother, I have to say that I would be most unhappy about praying my heart out in these circumstances.

You may know from previous of my posts in other threads, that I am most concerned about the two-fold exhibitionist/voyeurist issues which are raised by taking publicity this far.

I do see there is a place for agreement in prayer - that is, formal prayer by those leading whole meetings as facilitators - but I know from my own past struggles to pray my honest heart towards God, that several factors pertain, and being listened to by the entire world would have been asking at least one bridge to be crossed with would for me (at least) have been one too far. It is an unnecessary hurdle to ask brethren to endure, let alone those who might need to make their first ever real commitment to Christ.

Now, you might say those of prayers can be prayed in the prayer room... but... how can you be sure this is when the Spirit will be free to draw those kinds of prayer from the participants? Such a stricture may mean that you dampen the Spirit's moving in the prayer opportunities during and as a result of, the main gatherings and messages preached. At those spiritually open moments, that sense of privacy amongst spiritually trustworthy friends in the presence of God, is to be prized like gold.

I hope you would be open to guidance at the time, to switch off the broadcast for the sake of those who might need immediately to 'go through with God' on what feels to them like a matter of life and death (and probably is, therefore, exactly that serious).

Personally, the times I've been most able to be freed from bondage, is during corporate worship... proper worship... when God has descended and come to my aid. Thus, even times of praise and worship may not be suitable for broadcast. So... I would really hate to think that the opportunity for people to be changed forever, might be wasted by a mistaken hope of engendering a greater degree of natural unity.

Simply having the live webcast active for the corporate prayer times really will show to the world that the emphasis of this event is not just speaking but "prayer" for revival also. That we are desiring not just to pray about revival and hope for revival but have revival in our midst and have God come down in our midst. Personally if people are coming to showmanship before others they should probably not come. I am past the point of caring what people think of me and would rather just passionately plead for God to come, we need God!

Much is learnt by prayer also and many people are at a loss at what to pray, I think for some entering into these cooperative prayer times from abroad will be educational and bring a sense of awe and discernment on how to pray for revival and why this is important. I have learnt much more in the spirit hearing some old saints pray then hours by myself, not taking away the need for personal disciplined prayer times.

There will be a prayer room going on during the whole event which is hoped to be the furnace for the event.

One other reason for the video cameras capturing the prayer times will also be for the "documentary" that a large digital Christian tv station desires to do on the event, I am open to this believing it is from God.

Re: Revival Conference 2007: Pre-Register Today!, on: 2007/9/19 21:40

Greg, thank you for your reply.

I agree we learn much from hearing others pray and also that one gets past caring what others think. I believe also, that if you feel led to stop the cameras after the documentary makers have what they need, you will obey God.

WARNING!!!!!!! - posted by dohzman (), on: 2007/9/19 22:03

DO NOT BOOK TO STAY AT EITHER OF THESE MOTELS. They are simply bad places to stay. If anyone one needs a inexpensive place to stay there's a Motel 6 just off Portage Road. There's also a Red Roof Inn off Beldon Ave exit. Those are safer places. Sorry Greg didn't mean to correct you about the motels but these are crack dens that you listed and while many that frequent this site might enjoy preaching there, few would venture to stay there for fear of being shot, robbed, or even beaten up.

Re: WARNING!!!!!!! - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2007/9/20 0:16

Thank you brother Daryl. I edited out those motels that were listed. Please do saints look into the motels that pastor daryl mentioned.

I am excited to announce that Richard Siple has accepted to come speak at the event.

Richard Siple - been a licensed minister of the Christian and Missionary Alliance for 59 years. All but 4 of those years he has served as a pastor. During many of those years he ministered as an evangelist. At the present time Mr. Siple is a "Minister At Large" in the Christian and Missionary Alliance.
