

SermonIndex Support :: please help!

please help! - posted by consecrateme, on: 2007/9/22 1:31

Hello everyone i have question. i just just got this new windows vista notebook and to be honest i do not know much about computers.

so, i really need your help. it seems that everytime i try to listen to any of the sermons or comps i get a message asking me if i want to save file? am i suppose to always answer to this question in order to listen ? is there anby way to just click on the link and listen?

it can be a little frustrating especially when u have no clue about computers :-( please help....

Re: please help! - posted by crsschk (), on: 2007/9/22 9:24

Can commiserate a bit with you ... Vista appears to be designed with a bit of extra paranoia built in for security reasons. It essentially trains itself after awhile, I believe you are getting the "Should I allow?" pop up?

Either way, you can answer no to save or just "allow" and eventually, after it begins to recognize the frequency of usage it will stop asking.