

Scriptures and Doctrine :: Genesis 18*Genesis 18, on: 2007/9/25 8:35

A few chapters before this, God tells Abram (Abraham) that he will have a son of his own flesh, and he laughs at the thought of it. Sarai (Sarah) does the same thing in chapter 18, and laughs at the thought of bearing children.

However, I'm just curious as to why God seems to make a 'bigger thing' (for want of a better phrase) out of Sarah laughing than He did with Abraham.

Re: Genesis 18, on: 2007/9/26 19:28

Hi Richard,

Would you please post the verse where you think Abraham laughs? (I've never heard it said that he did laugh.)