Greetings saints! When I was on Win XP, I used some (now forgotten) freeware program to burn a simple DVD (no menu). Now, on Vista, I have Nero 7 Ultra, but although I have tried a few different burning options, it just won't burn a playable copy. For more information, I am using the exact same DVDs and same player as were successful before, so Nero is n't burning them right. To cut to the quick, is there a freeware program or some other method or maybe even something native to Vista that will allow me to do this? Thanks so much for the practical assistance!

Hello,

What Vista do you have? Windows Vista Home Premium and Windows Vista Ultimate come with a DVD maker.

Hello bro,

Did you notice there is a 'burn' facility on the media player?

I haven't used it yet but will be doing so tomorrow. (It's bedtime here!) If I find out anything subtle, I'll come back to share...

The Help section looks useful...

Preach and Dorcas,

Thanks so much for your input! I will check both of those options out and check back in if I can't get something to work. Really appreciate your helpfulness on this!

God bless you in the Word and in Christ and in loving Him and worshiping Him and serving others and being revived just so more people come to know the Master!
