

General Topics :: no politics*no politics - posted by Ema, on: 2008/7/3 0:47

I appologize for my last post. Looking back I see now that I was being a hypocrite when I said what I said and then in one of my messages I mentioned walking by faith and not by sight. Political debates seem to dull the faith edge in me rather than sharpen it. Thanks for reminding me.

Re: Obama for president? - posted by Tears_of_joy, on: 2008/7/3 1:54A Spiritual Voting Booth by Rick Leibee

<http://www.sermonindex.net/modules/mydownloads/singlefile.php?lid=13193>

Re:, on: 2008/7/3 9:11

One of the rules of this forum is that we do not engage in political debates. It tends to be VERY divisive, and does not further the cause of spiritual growth and revival. Secondly, people from all over the world come to this website and forum... not just Americans.

Just a word of caution.

No one loves to debate politics more than me... with the possible exceptions of Glenn Beck, Rush Limbaugh and Sean Hannity... but on this forum I restrain myself and submit to the wishes of the owner of this website.

Krispy