Message hidden in famous rappers song. Just goes to show who the music industry serves.

Another fun one is Obama's Yes We Can = Thank you Satan...

Greetings all,

The title of the link suggests that this message is hidden in a song backwards?

How exactly can that be possible?

I'm not asking for technical details but because this sort of thing does not sound credible.

If it is not true wouldn't it be a terrible thing to spread about someone? Even if their music is overtly offensive to us. Besides that, the popular music of this culture is overtly aligned with Satan, without any hidden messages, but because of the plain messages that it does contain. The lyrics themselves!

The very title of this thread is enough for me to not listen to the 'music'.

This kind of thing has been around a long time.

Besides, there is nothing 'fun' about satan.

Is the "Yes we can" confirmed?

This stuff always comes around every 20 or so years. It's a fad among Christians to waste time in trying to decipher a gagle. It's like Jesus saying, "You strain at a gnat". Even if there is any message, Christians shouldn't even be listening to this crap.
