

SermonIndex Support :: MP3 Splicing*MP3 Splicing - posted by Matthew2323 (), on: 2004/9/25 22:21

Does anyone know of any software that I can use to splice the MP3 sermons? When the file is downloaded and put on a disk, it comes in as one track. I'd like to be able to split the file into (roughly) 5 minute segments.

Any help would be appreciated. Thanks!

Re: MP3 Splicing - posted by hredii (), on: 2004/9/26 1:26

hello matthew

I know of a place you could go.

One is musicmatch.com they have a free program doanload. you can make tracks only when you put the whole sermon on CD and after you do that you can rip tracks from the CD. by going to the rip CD button. then select options and ther e you have it. you can select how long each track is.

Re: Thanks - posted by Matthew2323 (), on: 2004/9/26 2:56

Thank you. I'll download the file and let you know.

Thanks again!

Re: MP3 Splicing - posted by crsschk (), on: 2004/9/26 6:40

Hi Matthew,

Here is another and the one I am using:

(<http://www.nero.com/us/631898252770313.html>) <http://www.nero.com/us/631898252770313.html>

The Ultra Edition is fully functional and also has a mix for doing compilations and the like.

But even just to do splitting is relatively easy in the main program.

They have a 30 day trial

Re: MP3 Splicing - posted by GwapoJoe (), on: 2004/10/4 0:58

I use Adobe Audition 1.5 and it will let you do about anything you need to do with sound files, include things like you see with the compilations heard on this site. If you have the educational benefits buying software (are a studend of any kind) then go to <http://www.creationengine.com/default.html> and get best prices.