

Welcome & Intro :: introduction

introduction, on: 2004/9/28 17:15

Hi, just thought i'd introduce myself. Im 26 and married with two children (one on the way, christmas time) and was led to the Lord five years ago. Since that time i have had a tremendous thirst for the word and have found much wisdom from the puritans and many of these men and women of God featured on this amazing site! Not quite familiar to the site yet! I'm planning on writing a small book about an amazing discovery i made just over a year ago. Matthew Henry, the commentary writer was a frequent visitor to where i live and helped set up a small church here which has since moved up the road. It's an amazing story that very few are aware of which is why i feel it should be published freely. It excites me to know he could have worked on his commentary notes across the road from me! I wonder what he would think of this town now?
I'd best stop here or i'd go on forever! God bless everyone reading this, Geraldine.

Re: introduction - posted by philologos (), on: 2004/9/28 17:28

Hi Geraldine
welcome to the family...
I would be grateful to get a sight of your article when you have finished it. It is fascinating to see the links down the centuries.

Re: welcome - posted by moreofHim (), on: 2004/9/28 21:48

Geraldine,

Hi and welcome to SI!

Quote:
-----It excites me to know he could have worked on his commentary notes across the road from me!
-----

Wow, that is exciting! Sounds like a very interesting story. I hope you are blessed by the many things offered at SI.
In His perfect love, Chanin

Re: - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2004/9/29 0:34

Quote:
-----I'd best stop here or i'd go on forever! God bless everyone reading this,
-----

Welcome to SI! looking forward to hearing more from you. I pray you are blessed by the fellowship and also the audio resources. A good recommendation for first listening is "Ten Shekels and a Shirt" by Paris Reidhead.