What's your favorite compilation, other than the Revival Hymn and Freedom.

My favorite one is Signs of an Active Faith by Pastor Conlon. There are some other great ones that I enjoy but that's my favorite.

Do you have a favorite one?

Re: Compilations??, on: 2004/10/25 18:41

I really am inspired by "A Wee Story", "Jesus to the Nations", "AW Tozer Preaching", "Gods Hell", and United4Truth just finished making a compilation called "Voices Crying in the Wilderness" which is on street preaching which I'm sure will become my new favorite.

Just to clarify for people, Gideons is referring to the compilation selections found in this section on SermonIndex:

(<http://www.sermonindex.net/modules/mydownloads/viewcat.php?cid204>) Compilations

My obvious favorite is the Revival Hymn but other than that I was quite touched by these ones:

One thing you lack (compilation)

Speak To Me (compilation)

Thanks Greg. The brain is short a cylinder or two today. :)

Hi Guys. While you are on this topic of music, have any of you heard Derek Webb's (formerly of Caedman's Call, The Ho use Show? It is so awesome. I just heard it this week-end. My son shared it with me. We definitely need to get that on SI . Check it out, Greg. You're the guru on how to make that happen. I know you will love this.

If you liked "Wee Story", check a new comp I just sent 'bought' called "Young Donald McPhail Prays", its from a Duncan Campbell sermon, about this fire baptized 16 year old who prays in a meeting in the Hebrides revival, and the Fire FALL S.....I had presented the clip to bought without background music, and now I'm musing if I should add some. Bless God, its fun to be creative for the Kingdom.

Just so others know brother Neil is referring to a site called: www.fireonthealtar.com where there are mixes of this nature , most of the ones on SermonIndex came from that site! I know the brother that runs that ministry and we have been able to partner ministries to some extent.

Brother Neil is that mix you are referring to up yet?

Brother Greg Gordon, on: 2004/10/25 22:27

I just sent the new comp to him this morning, its a wonderful story thats on a Duncan Campbell audio file that I got from .
..where else?.....BUT HERE!! lol

Its on the Duncan Campbell page, "Then the Fire of the Lord fell".

So many times, I've got on my knees, turned the lights out and listened to Brother Duncan, what a blessing. I live in a community much like the Hebrides...physically, but its a "new age" trip here, a lot of occultic strongholds, a lot of demonic activity, and very very post-Christian.

But I have a praise report; for the past year and a half, on the basis of Jeremiah 31 and verse 21,

"Set up road signs;
put up guide posts.

Take note of the highway,
the road that you take.

Return O Virgin Israel, return to your towns".

I've been putting signs all along the rural highway I live on, signs that read "JESUS" or "Jesus is love", all sorts of Christ centered hand lettered signs on cardboard, put along a highway that has 20,000 motorists tooling along it everyday...its an exurban bedroom community of Los Angeles, and these signs just drive the pagans and satan worshippers wild, BLESS HIS NAME, but I do it, because a small group of us, about 5 believers have been praying for almost two years now, for God to take mercy on this hellbound community, Topanga and for the Fire of the Lord to fall. Heaven knows what these pagans think,when they see the signs (lol) but anyway, this Friday, me and my boy were driving back and right near school road I SAW IT!!!

hand lettered, long and big, stapled to an oak tree,

"JESUS LOVES YOU"

me and my boy started praising the Lord, and whooping and hollering, I'm getting happy now just thinking about it. Greg, your a Canadian...this community Topanga is a longstanding hippy town,very infamous as a Southern California hippy town and for a sign to suddenly appear that I didnt tack up is HUGE.

anyway, I just wanted to share that nugget of Holy Ghost happiness, God is so good, and this earth is such a hard place, you take your blessings wherever you can get them.

God bless you Brother,

I'm working on putting the music to the comp now.

In Him,
Neil

in answer to your question, I LOVE a comp by a brother who goes under the moniker "SMU Jesus Freak", and he did a comp called, "Hell is in a panic", that makes me laugh everytime I hear it. Ron Lewis tells how when he was a college student in NC, the Holy Ghost had him holding church on a Greyhound bus. Good stuff!!

I'm glad you enjoyed that compilation, it's one of my favorites too, I put it together. 8-)

I was really moved by the sermon Carter Conlon preached by this title, so I took a few of the highlights and put it to the background music of the great hymn "Turn your Eyes Upon Jesus". It is a powerful sermon, you can download the whole sermon at the following link;

I encourage others to try their hand at creating their own compilations, it's easy and it's fun. Here is a link to a thread that Greg started with some tips for making your own compilations;

My friends at church are enjoying this one and I've listened to it a couple of hundred times over the last two weeks. It's been a real blessing to me.

There such passion for Jesus, it's palpable and so encouraging. That's the kind of heart I'm praying for.

Thank you Greg, on: 2004/10/27 1:10

Thanks for the encouragement, let me testify a sec, the reason the Lord gave me that, is cuz I'm burning everything onto CD, and I heard the Donald MacPhail bit, and that bit just.....I mean I think of the reality of that boy, weeping, and gazing into heaven, and then I think of Evan Roberts, weeping, and begging those in the sanctuary to bend....bend, bend the church. Tears, we need more tears...do you know what I mean? Not only about people plodding towards the abyss, but the wrecks they make of their lives now. Mistake me not, I am no humanist, but why did Jesus weep? He saw that pain, that loss in others.

forgive me, blathering. Tears. Schma, if the world sees us weeping for them, they too will begin to weep for themselves. Oh praise God.

I'm burning all my sound files onto CD, so I can put this here computer into the shed, so I can write a book I started. Abba knows me, and if I don't do it, I'll write all day long on forums rather than getting serious.

God bless you, and God bless the work you do here, by offering such as Duncan Campbell to the saints of this 21st century cyber community, cyber-church. God is good, he puts us in communities, and in these days, those communities might be linked by silicon fibers.

My love to you, in Him,
Neil

Re: The Most Unbelievable Comp, on: 2004/10/27 1:38

of the new batch is one called "Hell", by a brother from Ireland by the name of Simon.

Greg, this comp is STRONG!! I'm gonna burn it and play it either before the bible study or prayer meeting,

Dear brother...it's just as if you can read my thoughts. Even spiritual things can hold us back from communion with our Father.

I notice that it is easier for me to listen to sermons, to read stories, to read a book and to write on forums than to be one-on-one with the Lord. Just with His word and in prayer...it's easier to receive words from men than to seek the words of God. But it's so necessary..if I don't eat, I cannot feed...if I don't meet my Lord every day, how can I witness for Him? How will I grow, how will He become more real and real every day?

God didn't say to Moses: "Don't come closer"...He wanted him to draw closer, but first he had to take off his shoes, because he was standing on holy ground. It takes time to draw closer to the heart of Jesus! To be with Him, is to leave everything else as it is...

Thanks for these words Neil! I take these words with me, because it's no coincidence that I read them. God bless you and let us fix our eyes solely on Jesus Christ, the Author and Perfector of our faith!

In Him,

Paul
