Hello, I was wondering if you can help me with downloading sermons. The computer I am using is own that my school has loaned out to me, but because of their security system, I can not seem to successfully save the audio files to any music player. Do you have any suggestions that can help me?

It sounds like they have disabled your download capabilities. If so, I would suggest to not break their rules and download the files.

Other than that, you could go ask your school if they could unlock the feature...

Blessings!

7 Arguments Atheists Can't Use by Eli Brayley

I sent it to Mr. S an atheist (wouldn't let me give his full name or email)

This was his response would you pray for him

v' (and) attach it if it's o.k.

1. The guy admits already he rejects science, and doesn't believe in the notion of evolution. The idea that somehow because Christians in some cases believe in "theistic" evolution as proof of god is severely idiotic.
2. Nobody I know says that because evil exists, god doesn't, and I've never heard anyone say the existence of evil disproves god. What we say is the allowance of severe evil shows the god of believers shows the god of believers to be a capricious, awful, indifferent being unworthy of belief.
3. Nobody has offered ANY proof of supernatural miracles. Words don't count as evidence in ANYTHING! No court just accepts testimony as reason for convicting something, there always has to be tangible evidence.
4. Again, this is an argument no atheist has ever made as to why god doesn't exist. This is fighting a strawman. Lots of things are crutches for people, it doesn't prove or disprove god.
5. Religious crimes are simply evidence that those who claim to be morally superior to atheists because they believe in supernatural beings are really not.

6. The existence of time is based on the speed of light and light's movement, it's actually a pretty simple concept to understand if you don't do stupid shit like deny the existence of evolution.

7. No atheist says they don't want there to be a god. Atheism is a rejection of the existence of a supernatural controlling being.

This whole e-mail was clearly created by someone with extreme ignorance, and was easily dispensed with by a 28 year old who within the past hour had the equivalent of eight drinks. If someone who's drunk can defeat this idiot, imagine how someone sober like Richard Dawkins or Sam Harris could do with it. All these points were pure idiocy and in a debate if someone were to argue them, they'd lose to even the most mediocre educated non-believer, let alone someone who actually knows anything.
