

General Topics :: How wonderful are you*How wonderful are you - posted by markitats (), on: 2004/12/26 1:01

Here is to Jesus, the world's savior, my soul longs for you:

"Poverty stricken was my hell bound soul,

Burdened by eternal separation, but I did not know.

You did it not against your own will,

You were accused, but stood ever so still.

You died a death, not deserved,

You chose a life, not preferred.

All in mind, was doomed to death,

Your soul never relinquished, until that last breath.

"It is finished", then before you, completed task,

In your unfailing love, you've chose, I'd bask.

No greater love could humanity or I repay,

Not by good works, but faith you say.

Your burden, my burden, together kissed,

A holy intimacy, this world could have missed.

But your father asked, "Is there anyone that will go?"

My life is now indebted, because your blood did flow!"-By Mark Michaelson

Re: How wonderful are you, on: 2005/3/30 22:46

Touching Poem, I can see why poems are popular among certain circles, it comes deep from within.

Thanks for sharing yours brother.

Karl

Re: How wonderful are you - posted by Compton (), on: 2005/3/31 2:34

Beautiful! I know heaven records everything we say but I imagine that God takes special delight in recording these words. Maybe that's part of what we'll do in eternity...is listen to heartfelt words of praise like this. Worthy is the Lamb.

MC