A Christian pastor in Iran has twice refused to recant his faith in court and could be executed within days, which would make him the first since 1990 to be put to death by the government for apostasy.

Yousef Nadarkhani, who leads a 400-person house church movement, refused in court on Sept. 25 and Sept. 26 to recant Christianity and was scheduled to get two more chances on Sept. 27 and Sept. 28, according to the British-based Christian Solidarity Worldwide (CSW), which monitors religious freedom. If he refuses the next two times to recant, he will be executed, CSW reported. ...

Latest info suggest clock is ticking down for Brother Youcef. Both the Speaker of the House and British Foreign Secretary have called on Iran to spare Youcef Nadarkhani's life. There has been no response from Iran. Believers in Iran fear he could be executed after midnight tonight. Please keep praying for this brother.
