"Discipline, for the Christian, begins with the body. We have only one. It is this body that is the primary material given to us for sacrifice. We cannot give our hearts to God and keep our bodies for ourselves." - Elisabeth Elliot

"Today, even amongst Christians, there can be found much of that spirit that wants to give as little as possible to the Lord, and yet to get as much as possible from Him. The prevailing thought today is of being used, as though that were the one thing that mattered. That my little rubber band should be stretched to the very limit seems all important. But this is not the Lord's mind. The Lord wants us to be used, yes; but what He is after is that we pour all we have, ourselves, to Him, and if that be all, that is enough." - Watchman Nee

Young people, you are the first generation who think that in order to reach your age you've got to become like your culture to become relevant to your culture. You're the first Christian generation to believe that. All other Christians said this, "To be effective in my culture I've got to be completely different than my culture." -Paul Washer

"You probably know the illustration of Fact, Faith and Experience walking along the top of a wall. Fact walked steadily on, turning neither to right nor left and never looking behind. Faith followed and all went well so long as he kept his eyes focused upon Fact; but as soon as he became concerned about Experience and turned to see how he was getting on, he lost his balance and tumbled off the wall, and poor old Experience fell down after him."

The gospel message that encourages people to approach salvation as a commodity or a possession rather than as a result of their relationship with the Father is a damnable heresy, and must be forsaken by everyone who believes in it before they can enter the Kingdom of God. The Bible says that the Kingdom of God is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. If a person has a REAL, PROPER relationship with Jesus, they will live in righteousness, peace and joy.

"While extremely sensitive as to the slightest approach to slander, you must also guard against an extreme into which some people fall who, in their desire to speak evil of no one, actually uphold and speak well of vice. If you have to do with one who is unquestionably a slanderer, do not excuse him by calling him frank and free-spoken; do not call one who is notoriously vain, liberal and elegant; do not call dangerous levities mere simplicity; do not screen disobedience under the name of zeal; or arrogance, of frankness; or evil intimacy, of friendship. No, my friends, we must never, in our wish to shun slander, foster or flatter vice in others: but we must call evil evil, and sin sin, and so doing we shall serve God's glory." - Francis de Sales

This is a great quote, Greg!

BTW, have you ever thought of compiling all of these quotes into book form (or eBook form)?

I began to do this a few years ago. However, the "trade paperback" format (via both In Design and Word) with quotes and an index grew to nearly 600 pages.

Still, it would be great to see a eBook or bound collection of these wonderful quotes!

Re: Great Quotes 14 - posted by iceman9, on: 2012/5/7 13:24

I say no person has repented until he or she has brought himself or herself to feel he or she killed the Savior. I don't believe any person has repented who would rather be happy than holy. We are living in the gloomiest age of the Church, and yet the Church is seeking happiness avidly, and not finding it, because she's not looking for it in the right place. As long as a person would rather be happy than holy, he or she is an unrepentant man. As soon as this realization hits our conscience, we don't care whether we are happy or not. We need to be hit with our conscience, smitten, wounded within, until contrition becomes a part of our life.

A.W. Tozer

Re: Great Quotes 14 - posted by iceman9, on: 2012/5/7 13:34

In his (Paul's) epistles, there are references, how he was the least of all Christians and the worst of all apostles, because of his sins. In this happy, happy age—this age of cheap, infantile giggling, we want to get repentance over with so we can have fun. Oh, my God, wound us; wound us with the wound of contrition so we'll never quite get over it, so we always will carry around with us the knowledge that we've been sinners and never forget that we've been sinners.

Let us, then, not only call Him Lord, for that will not save us. For He saith, "Not every one that saith to me, Lord, Lord, shall be saved, but he that worketh righteousness." Wherefore, brethren, let us confess Him by our works, by loving one another, by not committing adultery, or speaking evil of one another, or cherishing envy; but by being continent, compassionate, and good. We ought also to sympathize with one another, and not be avaricious. By such works let us confess Him, and not by those that are of an opposite kind. And it is not fitting that we should fear men, but rather God. For this reason, if we should do such things, the Lord hath said, "Even though ye were gathered together to me in my very bosom, yet if ye were not to keep my commandments, I would cast you off, and say unto you, Depart from me; I know you not whence ye are, ye workers of iniquity." - Clement

"We all understand eternal wrath, eschatological wrath, calamitous wrath...But there's this other category of the wrath of abandonment, it is a form of God's wrath in which He lets go of a society and lets it catapult full speed without restraint in the direction of its own sinful desires and devices and choices..."

The first thing you look for in a society you're trying to discern whether God has abandoned that society is whether or not that society has gone through a sexual revolution so that illicit sex, adultery, every form of immorality is accepted as normal in that society. And we're there."

"What is soulish? Soulish is that which is done by oneself. And what is spiritual? It is that which is done by God. And these two are radically different. A person can do something without any need for waiting upon God and trusting in Him. Such action is fleshly and it is soulish. But if a person cannot speak before God speaks, cannot move except God moves first; if he must look to God, wait and depend on Him, then that person and that action are spiritual. Let us thus ask ourselves if all we do is in the Holy Spirit." - Watchman Nee

Rom 5:12 - Oswald Chambers - with *emphasis & note for clarity -

The Bible does not say that God punished the human race for one man's sin; but that the 'disposition' of sin, viz., *my claim to my right to myself*, entered into the human race by one man, and that another Man took on Him the sin of the human race and put it away (Heb 9:26) -- an infinitely profounder revelation.

**The disposition of sin is not immorality and wrong-doing, but the disposition of self-realization -- "I am my own god."**
This disposition may work out in decorous morality or in indecorous immorality, but it has the one basis, my claim to my right to myself.

When Our Lord faced men with all the forces of evil in them, and men who were clean living and moral and upright, He did not pay any attention to the moral degradation of the one or to the moral attainment of the other; *He looked at something we do not see, viz., the disposition*.

I know, through experience, about complete surrender. Years ago, when I was a prisoner of Adolf Hitler and his followers, I had to surrender my will completely. During the time I was a prisoner, I could not decide anything myself. I just had to obey. But we have to surrender to someone else - to God, who is love. He is not a dictator; He is a loving Father. There is no limit to what He will do for us, no end to His blessings, if we surrender to Him. Surrender is trusting God. This is what God asks from us. He gives a deep rest after we surrender.

"Do not make the mistake of assuming that Samson was some kind of flash-in-the-pan. Twice we read that he judged Israel for a period of twenty years. He was also a very humble man and humility is very rare among men. Especially is this so among those who are outstanding in some field of human endeavor. Had Samson lived today he would have been known around the world. He actually killed a lion with his bare hands, but the record says that he did not even tell his father or his mother (Judges 14:6). Later on, when passing by the same way, he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion. He found a swarm of bees in the carcass took some of the honey and went back to the path and gave it to his father and mother. He still did not tell them the story of what had happened. In both cases, they were traveling with him, but he, being young and strong, was well out in front of his parents. If anyone asks me why I think so, I answer, because Christ, in everything, is to "have the pre-eminence", and I cannot conceive how He could have the pre-eminence if there are to be more in the dominions of Satan than in Paradise." - C.H. "The authentic Christian life is essentially and radically different from the natural life lived by a man or woman. Outwardly, it can be very much the same, but inwardly the basis of living is dramatically different. Christ is a part of every wholesome action, the corrector of every wrong deed or thought, the giver of joy and the healer of hurt. No longer merely on the edges of life, Christ is the center of everything. Life revolves around him. As a consequence, life comes into proper focus. Despite outward trials, a deep peace possesses the heart, strength grips the spirit and kindness and joy radiate abroad. This is really living!" - Ray Stedman

If religious books are not widely circulated among the masses in this country, I do not know what is going to become of us as a nation. If truth be not diffused, error will be;

If God and His Word are not known and received, the devil and his works will gain the ascendancy; If the evangelical volume does not reach every hamlet, the pages of a corrupt and licentious literature will;

If the power of the Gospel is not felt throughout the length and breadth of the land, anarchy and misrule, degradation and misery, corruption and darkness will reign without mitigation or end. ~ Daniel Webster

It took that 'successful church' a thousand years to recover from that brilliant success*. Something like that has happened in our day here in America. In this century, the church and religion have been adopted by society, politicians, entertainers, and popular persons. All of a sudden 'Jesus' and the 'gospel' have become quite popular. Millions have joined to swell church membership to an all-time high. RESULTS: A CHURCH TODAY THAT BEARS NO RESEMBLANCE TO THE CHURCH OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST. "The world and the church's needs are greater than ever, and so are the opportunities. The stage is set for possibly the greatest advancement in missions the church has ever known. Political upheavals have opened the door to countries that were previously closed, and all the great "ism's" of secular man have fallen under the weight of their own error. Humanism has left our world disillusioned and cynical. Secular thought has left it soulless and empty. Materialism has left both the "haves" and the "have not's" miserable and constantly at war. Sexual libertarianism has raped the individual of human dignity, exiled beauty, and driven a knife through the heart of innocence. Finally, the current revival of paganism has left men praying to rocks, hugging trees, and killing babies. The enlightenment of the twentieth century, which was to bring peace and prosperity has spawned more ignorance, poverty, immorality, and violence than any scholar could have predicted or any prophet could have foretold. It is a day to do great things." - Paul Washer

"In the Scriptures, many graphic and striking descriptions of hell are given. Whether they are to be taken as literal or not has been a long-standing debate even among conservative scholars. Is hell a place of literal fire and darkness, of brimstone and smoke? If someone denies a literal interpretation of these descriptions with the purpose of diminishing the sufferings of the wicked in hell, they are to be dismissed. However, it is acceptable to hold these descriptions to be figurative in the sense that they are an attempt to describe something so terrifying that it goes beyond the capacity of the human mind to conceive and beyond the power of our human language to communicate. To describe the terrors of hell, the biblical writers used the greatest terrors known to man on earth, but one can be assured that hell is worse than anything found on earth. Fire and darkness, brimstone and smoke are only a feeble attempt to describe a reality far more terrifying than even these words can convey. In the same way that the glories of heaven cannot be comprehended by the human mind or communicated through human language, the terrors of hell are beyond our comprehension and ability to describe." - Paul Washer

"John Wesley never lowered himself to preach miracles once in his life. But the miracles that followed John Wesley's ministry were unbelievable. On one instance he had to make an engagement, and his horse fell lame and could not travel. Wesley got down on his knees beside his horse and prayed for its healing. Then he got back up and rode, without the horse limping, to where he was going. He did not publicize the miracle and say, "We'll have a big tent here and advertise it." God just did those things for him. While C. H. Spurgeon did not preach healing, he had more people delivered in answer to his prayer than any doctor in London. Those are the kinds of miracles I am talking about." - A.W. Tozer
