Put down the stones.

Just trying to lighten up a bit here. Besides it's true you knuckleheads...

In recent travels going down to meet up with Greg our beloved webmaster also was blessed to come across some other saints from the site. Namely two ladies who have a true heart for the Lord and was blessed to share 'semonette's that had touched our lives.

Was asked then and offered up to pull together the women speakers here. And now that the interesting timing of the other thread has seemed to be at a low ebb, pulled together all that I could find for these sisters request.

Please bear in mind that we may all not agree with these particular view points, nor would I in some instances. But not having exhausted them all, a lot of whatever I may think I might have a problem with is based on here-say, not from actually listening to and gleaning from.

So with that in mind hope that we would reserve judgment and use good Berean sense in specific and at all times as we should.
