Greetings

I read the news story then I went to his blog. Here is a link where he further explains.

<http://danhaseltine.com/>

I read his post entitled Reset. He does explain things and does admit that he used very poor wording in some of the questions he asked. He also says that he believes he made a mistake in asking this question about gay marriage in a forum such as twitter.

After reading it I can not say where he really stand on the subject. He did not really say if he supports traditional marriage or not. I got the impression he was looking to discuss this topic more on his blog.

For myself, speaking to this topic I believe JESUS cares about what is "right and wrong" HE cares about living righteous lives unto HIM, and HE cares about how we treat people, but NEVER will HE or does HE compromise on sin!

God bless
