

News and Current Events :: Kids seized over family's 'Christian indoctrination*Kids seized over family's 'Christian indoctrination, on: 2015/12/13 0:48

Here is an article that i believe every Christian family with young kids should read (I saw it on Kjos Ministries)
<http://www.wnd.com/2015/12/norway-seizes-kids-over-familys-christian-indoctrination/print/>

Do we really understand the time we are living in and what's ahead of us?

Re: Kids seized over family's 'Christian indoctrination, on: 2015/12/13 1:28

oh, come quickly, Lord Jesus

That's pretty amazing! - posted by docs (), on: 2015/12/13 15:08

It was not so very long ago when people gave their lives to help countries likke Norway get free from Nazism. Now this!

Re: That's pretty amazing!, on: 2015/12/13 16:27

We need to keep the situation in our prayers. Very alarming coming from a democratic nation.

I'm wondering if contacting in the Norwegian Embassy in Washington DC will have any impact on this family's case.

Blaine

Re: , on: 2015/12/13 16:52

"Democrat country", means little when it comes too homeschooling and Christianity in European countries.

Read about this Swedish family.

<http://www.hslda.org/hs/international/Sweden/201512010.asp>

And families in Germany. (They belong to the state)

<http://hslda.org/hs/international/Germany/default.asp>

<http://hslda.org/hs/international/>

Re: - posted by docs (), on: 2015/12/13 18:22

//We need to keep the situation in our prayers. Very alarming coming from a democratic nation.

I'm wondering if contacting in the Norwegian Embassy in Washington DC will have any impact on this family's case.//

That might help. I just may do that if time permits.

Thanks.

Re: , on: 2015/12/13 19:13

David just checked the State Department bulletin. The United States does have diplomatic relations with Norway. So the re's probably a way to contact the embassy and express our concern.

I think I would like to do this. But do it in a respectful way. Don't want to criticize the Norwegian government. But let them know my concern as an American Christian about the seizure of these children.

I think Norway has signed various International treaties that prevent this type stuff. They may need to be reminded of the ir obligation

If enough people contacted their embassy. This could conceivably have an impact. At least nothing ventured nothing gai ned.

Just some thoughts.

Re: , on: 2015/12/13 19:51

Norway is one of the most egregious countries when it comes to violating parental rights.

Many families from other countries have suffered similar fates in the hands of Barnevernet. Barnevernet has divided families from Brazil, Chile, Czech Republic, Estonia, India, Lithuania, Poland, Russia, Slovakia, Sweden, and, of course, has taken many Norwegian children as well.

It happens, unfortunately, that Barnevernet takes a child from parents without any proof of abuse or neglect, usually based on a mere statement from a neighbour or on a recommendation of Barnevernet infamous psychologists. The children are then given to foster parents who earn good money from the Government on this scheme.

There is no SATISFACTORY control mechanism for child protection. This fact also emerges with screaming clarity in these cases in which the authorities should have intervened, but did not.

No one is in charge and the arrogant and brutal Barnevernet is still allowed to operate almost as a State within the State. Have children become a business in Norway?

Another petition signed against the Barnevernet (Norwegian child welfare).

https://secure.avaaz.org/en/petition/Government_of_Norway_Return_Children_to_Their_Mother/?pv=50

Keep an eye on this one:

Gov't approves law cancelling parents' rights

<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/202774#.Vm4L3a9OKrX>

This time it suffered a loss but they vowed to pass it in the future.

Anti-parent bill suffers close loss in Knesset

<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/202930#.Vm4SLK9OKrU>

I think I may just do that - posted by docs (), on: 2015/12/13 20:38

I may try and contact the Norwegian folks tomorrow if time permits. I have already been thinking of it. It also seems there is an online petition being employed that already has 27,000 signatures.

Re: I sent them an email - posted by docs (), on: 2015/12/15 6:40

I sent an email to the Norwegian embassy in Washington and brought up the family by name and described the events and lodged a respectful protest. I asked if possible could I please receive a acknowledgement that they had received my message and could they send any up to date information they may have on the present status of this family and their children. It was simple to do.

Re: , on: 2015/12/15 8:23

David could you please send me the link on how to get an email respectfully protesting this family's case. I have not had a chance to follow up on the Norwegian Embassy. But I would like to also send an email.

Also it might be good to have it posted to the forum. That way any can send an email who are so led.

And I do agree. It should be respectful. Certainly not criticizing the Norwegian government. But letting them know our concern. Certainly since Norway is signatory to various UN treaties. And profess to be a democratic nation.

Blaine

Re: Email for the Norwegian embassy - posted by docs (), on: 2015/12/15 10:13

emb.washington@mfa.no

Click on that link right here and you'll be ready to compose and send.

Re: , on: 2015/12/15 10:16

Thanks David. Lord willing will get an email off to them.

Blaine

Re: , on: 2015/12/15 10:31

There are some good example petition letters on hslida.org if you need any.

And, yes the letters are very respectful.

Re: - posted by murrcolr (), on: 2015/12/15 11:43

Norway Ratified the European Convention on Human Rights in 1952

Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights provides a right to respect for one's "private and family life, his home and his correspondence"

Clearly this right has been violated by the Norwegian government.

Re: - posted by vasilef (), on: 2015/12/16 2:51

Pray for Bodnariu family

https://m.facebook.com/story.php?story_fbid=10153133813076695&id=602991694

Norwegian Embassy in Washington DC - Protest

https://m.facebook.com/story.php?story_fbid=751297948309666&id=744234959015965

Re: , on: 2015/12/18 18:19

"Norway has been ranked as the best country by the UN Development Program. " (on many News sites)

Here we see a bit of a wider picture, very alarming!

God's laws and standards are more and more replaced by "High Priests", like in the Dark Ages

"Nanny State: Arresting Moms Who Let Kids Play Outside Unattended"

<http://www.newsmax.com/US/moms-arrested-kids-play/2014/08/15/id/589134/>