

Miracles that follow the plow :: Is this website - Believers Portal - legit?*Is this website - Believers Portal - legit? - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2019/9/9 15:22

<https://believersportal.com/iraqi-christian-survives-being-burned-alive-by-isis-3-times>

I found this site on the web that recounts the miraculous among God's people. The stories are amazing, so much so I do wonder if they are really true. Does anyone know? I do want it to be true but do not want to promote a fake site.

Sandra

Re: Is this website - Believers Portal - legit? - posted by rufnrust (), on: 2019/9/10 6:17

Hey Sandra. I don't know about the website but the referenced miracle sounds a lot like something our God would do.

Recently, a young man my wife (mainly my wife) and I had been praying for and involving ourselves with, soaked his trailer and himself with kerosene and lit it on fire. Everything burned except him.

We are still involved with him and he is growing in the Lord.

Rusty

Re: - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2019/9/12 18:37

Do I understand your post correctly - that you soaked a fellow's trailer with kerosene and lit it, that everything burned except a fellow you have been praying for? Was this guy in the trailer? Lighting something with kerosene is not dangerous if you know what you are doing. I have lit many a fire using gasoline and never got hurt....Reckon, I am not sure of the point.

Sandra

Re: - posted by rufnrust (), on: 2019/9/13 14:56

Sorry I was not clear. He soaked it all and himself in an attempt to end his life. We had been praying for him knowing he was 'suicidal'. Jesus saved him and transformed his life.

We were not involved in setting the fire! lol Everything burned except him!

Rusty

Re: - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2019/9/13 19:24

Got it! Thanks for the clarification! PTL for that deliverance.

Sandra