Could we feature a few more sermons by Gbile Akanni?

His sermons are so refreshing and carry much anointing, he speaks I guess without script as he hears from the Spirit and he is not tucked into any theological straight jacket.

He often uses OT passages to illustrate deep biblical truths.

His Nigerian accent, mannerisms, charm, and vivid testimonies makes him even more lovable. At times he shouts in fierce indignation. Much uplifting, much conviction, deep truths uncovered, have some tissues ready for tears.

At the end of his sermons he often breaks out in a spiritual song, which is quite typical for African preachers.

Be prepared, most of his sermons last almost 2 hours!

I ripped some from Youtube into MP3.

Check for yourself, I hope my description is not too flattering.

Couldn't agree more!

He certainly belongs here as his sermons are of a special quality:)

Been listening to some of them multiple times and sharing them consistently. There's just something different about the quality of his word,.. it's like Peter says to "desire the pure milk of the word"- honestly I had thought I had experienced that from a few select preachers but when I tasted this milk it quickly exposed everything else I had tasted had either artificial flavors and sweeteners added or perhaps were taken from a heifer that was full of antibiotics and hormones,... but this word is different and has most certainly helped me grow spiritually ðŸ•»

And yes he goes for hours,... like Keith Daniels and call me old fashioned but in a world of "fast-food-sermonette" it's quite nice to have a full course sit down meal ðŸ†

This is one of my favorites so far-

Oh my goodness , Brother's,

I know, you know my thoughts on this,... God has truly blessed us with these messages.

... You have said it so well,...I so agree !

He has so many messages, you would think he would run out , or repeat,.. but no,.. The Lord, Who has an unlimited supply, just keeps on supplying him.

Although I have listened to so many, I have not listened to the one's you precious brother's have listed.

Thank you,

If you do not want to spend 2 hours in front of a screen, I suggest you use a free Youtube to MP3 converter app like "4K Youtube to MP3" and load them unto your own smartphone or mp3 player. It is very easy to use.
