

Welcome & Intro :: Hello, just introducing myself.

Hello, just introducing myself. - posted by alenska (), on: 2005/11/28 16:04

I stumbled across this web site by accident, actually looking for someone that is a member. I found that person and have also been captivated by the discussions.
I don't really know enough to contribute to the forums,I mainly have many questions.
So when you see me signed in, no doubt I am reading.
Thank you to everyone for letting me drop in and read...

Welcome to SI Dani,

I too stumbled on this site, looking for some sermons by David Wilkerson. It's been a real blessing and I pray it will be for you as well...

Welcome!

I was led to this site, and have been so blessed so very blessed ever since. You will find that on this site, you are able to ask questions, and learn from everyone's response. You will find some very awesome and anointed sermons, that you are able to download. I highly recommend YES!!!
Ten Shekels and a Shirt.

I must warn you, you will be quicken in your spirit to join in the debates. There will be a bubbling in your spirit to search the scriptures like never before, you will find yourself to be more alive then you have ever been.

There will be times when you will laugh, and times when you will weep, because of God's presence.

I pray Christ will be your Lord.

We all are here in love to help, but always put your trust in Jesus first. Any questions you have, ask of Him who is truth that He may lead you. Then let us share with you what the Lord has shared with each of us, in hopes that we all may grow together.

And remember, faith is not about having all the answers. It is about trusting in God who does.

In love,
Blake

That just sent shivers through me... There are times when this can appear as much as a battlefield as a M.A.S.H unit as the expressions are drawn out...

But if this be true: "There will be a bubbling in your spirit to search the scriptures like never before, you will find yourself to be more alive than you have ever been."

Then Praise God and ... I am speechless
:-?

A warm welcome to you both!
