Good quotes from Paris Reidhead's, "Deliverance of Power":

He didn't die to help me to do something that He knew I couldn't do. He died to do something and to be something to me that He knew I could never be. - Paris Reidhead

Who shall deliver me from the tyranny of my trait? Who shall deliver me from the despotism of my disposition? You see, I was praying, "Oh God help, help me not to be critical; help me not to be sarcastic; God couldn't answer to that prayer. If He did, He would have to overthrow the whole foundation of government. The Lord Jesus Christ didn't die to help me. He died knowing I couldn't do it; He didn't die to help me do it. He died so that I could come to the place where I'd let Him do it for me. You see, He's everything that I'm not and all I have to bring Him when I come to Him is an honest recognition that I'm not and He is and I don't have and He has. The answer to the despotism of your trait and disposition is not in self hypnotism, it's not in some kind of an evangelical slogan; I'm getting every day and every way, I'm getting better and better. It's from a frank, open, admission that in me, in my flesh, dwelleth no good thing. - Paris Reidhead

Praise the Lord!!

wow those are some powerful truths. I might seem weird to some evangelical Christians reading them. Listen to sermons by Paris Reidhead to get a very concise understanding of salvation in Jesus Christ. Note: A.W. Tozer knew Paris Reidhead quite well as far as I know.
